

DAILY NEWS

snack attack!

By CHRIS ROVZAR

Flavor that's at the top of the pops

Authentic All Natural Kettlecorn, from Popcorn, Indiana

It's an age-old corn conundrum. You love the light, sweet-and-salty flavor of kettlecorn, but when you try to buy a package in the store, it ends up tasting more like heavy, sugary Cracker Jack. But Popcorn, Indiana's version is downright delightful. "The secret is getting the heat just right," the back of the bag wisely explains. "We heat it just right, so that the sugar is melting just as the corn starts to pop, leaving every kernel with a thin shell of salty sweetness." Good lord, it's practically erotic! Stop reading and start eating.

At www.popcornindiana.com and most better delis.

