

POPCORN, INDIANA brand popcorn

Thursday, April 22, 2010

If I could live anywhere in the states I would probably pick Popcorn, Indiana. Yes, there is such a place although I never knew until now. As a self proclaimed popcorn connoisseur I can now say that I have tasted a bit of heaven. I do not know how, other than because of the name of the town, that they are able to get a fresh popped flavor and texture into a bag, seal it and have it remain that way until the bag is opened in your hot little hands.

Aged White Cheddar, which was one of the flavors I tried with its cheesy goodness, smooth and creamy like Aged Wisconsin cheddar, mouth watering flavor that kept me wanting more and the bag was empty. Simply satisfying, munchy, crunchy goodness.

I also tried Movie Theater Popcorn and talk about a blast from old time past. The crunchy, buttery treat from the old movie theaters (not like the artificial stuff the theaters serve now) brought me back to being a kid watching movies with friends and family. This popcorn is all natural, made with real butter, kettle popped and crisp. It's just simply delightful. Might have to consider sneaking a bag into the next movie I see to revisit the feeling.

Other flavors this company serves up are Smoked Cheddar Cheese, Summer Picnic BBQ, Chili Con Queso, Kettlecorn, Sea Salt and Caramel. If this company were looking for taste testers I think I would sell my house and move to Popcorn, Indiana, which would be a dream job in my opinion.
